Stewardship:
"For the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many." Mark 10:45
If you held a mirror up to your life, would it reflect God's love and mercy? If you are struggling with this, try changing your attitude from "I want more" to "thank you God for everything you have given me, I have enough to share". This change in perspective will bring you joy through service to others.

Ask Fr James

"I came to give my life a ransom for many" (Mark 10:45). What did Jesus mean by this statement?

This verse is one of the most discussed passages of the Bible and theological discourse on it is still on-going. In the first 1000 years of the Christian Church, this passage was interpreted to mean that because of the Satan taking over the world in the fall of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, Jesus had to come to give himself as a ransom for many. The theologians who uphold this theory (Origen (ca. 185- ca. 254), Gregory of Nyssa (ca. 330- ca. 395) and Irenaeus of Lyon) said a price for the ransom of humanity must have been paid to the Devil, to release mankind back into possession of God.

However, in the 11th century, St Anselm, archbishop of Canterbury, developed an atonement theory known as Satisfaction theory. In his work Why God Became Man, Anselm argued that God did not owe Satan, but that man's atonement necessitated an incarnate Christ. According to Anselm, the holiness of God could not let sin go unpunished. He has been offended and reparations must be made for sin. Since God has required more than what humans can pay, according to John 10:18, Jesus was in control of His own life. Jesus chose to give himself as a sacrifice to God. Therefore, Anselm saw Jesus as the ultimate satisfaction. Therefore, Jesus' sacrifice was a perfect satisfaction.

Today, the theory of Anselm is found to be increasingly inadequate both pastorally and theologically. One central theory that is accepted now is that of Edward Schillebeeckx. He says we daily experience fragments of salvation - that is; our experiences of healing, reconciliation, and liberation are steps toward human wholeness. Jesus went to the cross freely and deliberately as part and parcel of the salvation-offered-by-God because of his caring love for the people. Mark 10:45, therefore, was a service performed by Jesus for us, his disciples, and the reason the church prays at the Eucharist over the bread and the wine to reflect the self-giving of Jesus "for many." The words of consecration during Mass justifies this position when the priest repeats the words of Christ:

"Take this, all of you, and drink from it, for this is the chalice of my Blood, the Blood of the new and eternal covenant, which will be poured out for you and for many for the forgiveness of sins. Do this in memory of me."

By that act, the disciples are made a 'new fellowship'; a 'new covenant.' In the very face of death, Jesus continues to offer the cup of fellowship, the last one, to his disciples suggesting that fellowship with Jesus will continue "in spite of his death. This position agrees with Paul in Colossians 2:15, wherein he says; Christ was not paid to Satan, but He waged battle with the evil forces and overcame them. This new understanding says Christ's victory mean fights against and triumphs over the evil powers of the world, the 'tyrants' under which mankind is in bondage and suffering, has been won and in Him God reconciles the world to Himself.

So when we look at the cross, we should see the reason why Christ died on the cross - the Ransom theory. Put in another way, Jesus is saying that; "I have come to bear your infirmities. I have come to be wounded for your transgressions. I have come to bless your life with the blessing of God. I will go through the cross to bless you. I will go through hell itself to bless you. I have come to give my life as a ransom for many. Amen.

You may email/send your faith questions to Fr. James and he will answer them in our Sunday Bulletins.

Many of us often find ourselves seeking the recognition of the world. Like James and John in today's gospel, we'd like to occupy a place of honor, to earn the respect of others, to be the best at what we do. These are the things the world tells us are important, and so we strive to attain them. Jesus reminds us, "The Son of Man came not to be served, but to serve, and to give His life as a ransom for many." And so we follow suit.

Yet, in today's readings, the Lord calls us to bigger and better things. We are called to strive for greatness in His kingdom, not by looking out for ourselves but by loving and serving others - truly seeking nothing in return. In sharing our financial resources generously, we are also fulfilling the greatness we are called to achieve aside from the other services and activities we do for others. Our Parish goal is $20,846

Membership fees are now due. $30.00.
